GROWING OLD.

Some day, looking in my mirror, I'll discover, here and there, Slowly on my head intruding, Scattering threads of silver hair, But I do not think I'll murmur, And I do not think I'll sigh, And my heart will not be saddened When I see I'm growing old.

I will make no lamentation And no tear will dim my eye. There will be no touch of sadness, Nor a sigh, regretful sigh; Youth will be a mere reminiscence, Just a story that is told, But I'll not wish to recall it When I see I'm growing old.

I shall think that, of Life's battle, Of the hard, relentless grind, There is less to be feared, There is more that's left behind. Nearer, then, my rest from labor On Life's path so bleak and cold, So the gray hairs will be welcome When I see I'm growing old.

—Joseph Bert Smiley.

How She Wrote It.

One of the qualities necessary to success in any line of work is the ability to think and act practically upon the everyday questions of life.

A young woman who had charge of the cataloging of the accounts of a Philadelphia bank employed as an assistant a girl apparently intelligent and well educated, to whom she gave the necessary directions for the work. One of the instructions was that, while she was to write out the full name where an abbreviation was used, she must never abbreviate a name.

One day the young woman in charge found the following peculiar name and address, neatly written out by the assistant, "Sam'l. Brown, trustee for George and Minnie Section, Academy of Natural Sciences."

Somewhat surprised at the address, she asked to see the ledger from which it was copied. The ledger read, "Sam'l. Brown, trustee for Geo. and Min. Section, Academy of Natural Sciences."

The young woman had never studied either geology or mineralogy, but when the matter was explained to her she found that the word "Section" is not always a surname, and that "Geo." may be an abbreviation for something quite different from George.—Youth's Companion.

The Flirtation.

A Customer—Give me a dozen shirts. Shopkeeper—Here you are, sir, the best quality.

Customer—How much?

Shopkeeper—One fifty each.

Customer—All right, wrap them up. Now, how much are these socks?

Shopkeeper—Fifty cents a pair.

Customer—Well, I'll take three dozen pairs instead of the shirts.

The socks are done up and the customer starts for the door with the bundle.

Shopkeeper—Hold on there, you haven't paid for those socks.

Customer—Certainly not. I took them in exchange for the shirts.

Shopkeeper—Yes, but you didn't pay for the shirts.

Customer—Certainly not, because I didn't take them.

Shopkeeper—That's a fact, and he spends the next half hour trying to make his cash balance.—New York Herald.

Public Office in China.

The Chinese system of government lacks entirely the progressive and unifying element of popular election. The people have no voice in the choice of their rulers, and the rulers consider the people as so many sheep to be fleeced. The officials are paid starvingly low salaries, and many offices are openly bought. Corruption and extortion may therefore be said to be almost sanctioned, the only restraint being the dread of insurrection and the power of guilds, clans and secret societies. There is imperfect protection from robbers and pirates, many villages preferring to subsidize robber bands rather than to have to deal with the worse form of robbery practiced by the officials.—Westminster Review.

Emile Zola's Working Hours.

Emile Zola's habits are extremely regular. He takes a walk every morning, usually leaving his house, whether at Medan or at Paris, about 9 o'clock. He lunches at midday, and writes from 1 o'clock till 6, receiving no visitors and transacting no business in the afternoon. He has a particular liking for large and massive pieces of furniture, so his writing table and his library chairs are of colossal proportions, as is also his inkstand, which is in bronze and represents a lion.—Paris Cor. Philadelphia Telegraph.

What Pain Do Animals Feel?

When the sensitiveness to pain of the negro, compared with that of the European, is but one to three, as Dr. F. Kelin concludes it is, what relation to the latter is borne by the sensitiveness of the monkey? of the bird? of the reptile and the fish? of creatures lower still?—London Sunday Magazine?

An Automatic Applauder.

A Frenchman has perfected an invention by which managers of theaters can ascertain on first nights, in a practical manner, the feelings of the public. The contrivance is an automatic applauder, set in motion by a five centime piece.—New York Journal.

The irregularity of Maine's coast line is indicated by the fact that a Lubec man who bought a horse in Eastport was obliged to drive the animal more than forty miles to reach his home, although the two towns are only three miles apart in a straight line.

To the Eskimos of Labrador belong the honor of having discovered that the moon was the paradise of the good, and that the wicked are to be consigned to a cold cave in the center of the earth.

The man who never went to the theater in his life is usually the man who declares loudest against the immorality of the stage.

Several women have been permitted to practice dentistry in Denmark after having passed the regular examinations.

Modern Education.

With all its novel modern powers and practical sense I am forced to admit that the purely scientific brain is miserably mechanical; it seems to have become a splendid sort of self directed machine, an incredible automaton, grinding on with its analysis or constructions. But for pure sentiment, for all that spontaneous Greek waywardness of fancy, for the temperature of passion and the subtle thrill of idealism, you might as well look to a wrought iron derrier. Science found education blundering peacefully along, cultivating half of the mind with charming results and letting the other die of disuse; it worked the startling miracle of electrifying this dead half into life and bringing it to perfect activity, and straightway, satisfied with this remarkable achievement, it proceeded to neglect the ideal half which the classics had made so much of and caused it to perish. It has substituted a new sort of half man for the old one.—Clarence King in Forum.

Skill in the Wrist.

It is wonderful what a part the wrist plays in exercises in which physical skill and delicacy are required. After a man learns to play billiards well enough to be familiar with the cushions and the English, the important thing to cultivate is his stroke. It is the hardest thing about billiard playing to get a good stroke, and sometimes the greatest players "fall down" because they lose control of it. Now, the stroke wholly depends on the action of the wrist. Jake Schaeffer, or any good player, will make a shot of seven cushions with less apparent force than a beginner will exert in getting three. This is due to the superior wrist movement.

It's the same way with violin playing. The quality and touch all depend on wrist manipulation. So with curving a baseball. Great pitchers always work a strong wrist movement on the ball as it leaves the hand. If they didn't it wouldn't curve at all.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Good Story About a Sane Lawyer. A Sane lawyer lost his office key and with it, on the same bunch, the keys to his safe and house.

There is a spring lock on his office door, and he concluded that he must have left it in his office and have come out and locked the door. He accordingly borrowed a long ladder and raveled through the back window of his office.

No keys were to be seen, and after cogitating over the peculiar state of affairs he at last let himself out, and there on the outside of the lock were hanging the keys.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

Beating the Earth. The highest velocity ever given to a cannon ball is estimated at a mile in 3.2 seconds. The velocity of the earth at the equator, due to its rotation on its axis, is a mile in 3.6 seconds. Therefore, if a cannon ball were fired due west, and could maintain its initial velocity, it would beat the sun in his apparent journey around the earth.—New York Journal.

IGNORANT OF FACTS AND USAGES.

The Democratic lamb, disguised as a silver Republican, stole his ignorance of the facts which occurred at the Silver Club meeting at the Court House, and of the country which respectable citizens by common consent accord each other on occasion. When Dr. Bergstein and Mr. Beck addressed the meeting before signing the roll, a motion was before the meeting. That motion was disposed of for the time and another adopted by common consent without discussion, that those who favored the organization of a Silver Club enroll for that purpose. When all present who desired to do so, signed the roll, the chair ruled that those whose names were enrolled had control of the meeting. Does the lamb think that ruling arbitrary and tyrannical and that persons who would not sign the roll should be permitted to control the meeting?

Court Houses are frequently used as meeting places for organizations of a public character. The Board of Trade held meetings in the Court House which, as was the case the other night, was heated and lighted at public expense. Does the guileless lamb imagine that because it was so heated and lighted, he and other members of his flock had a right, if they choose to exercise it, to control those meetings? The fifty or more men, who enrolled themselves as members of the Washoe Silver Club last Tuesday, are, without exception, respectable, law-abiding citizens. Among them are several of the heaviest taxpayers in Reno, and that they had a right to control the meeting is not disputed, save by those, who, like the lamb, do not know the facts, or knowing them, are too much prejudiced to judge impartially.

THE RULE OF THE GOLD KINGS.

In an article on "The Rule of the Gold Kings" in the North American Review for May, 1892, Senator Stewart says:

"The advocates of gold express great anxiety to make each dollar as good as every other dollar. This may be done, it is true, by a promise to redeem one dollar in another dollar. The Government may promise to redeem its paper money and its silver money in gold coin. While such a promise can be maintained, the paper money and the silver money are as good as the gold money, but the silver money in such a case is merely credit money, depending upon the promise to redeem in gold for its value, and is no better than paper money."

"The only possible way to make a silver dollar as good as a gold dollar, in the full sense of the expression, is to restore it to the place it occupied previous to 1876. Give it the money function; treat it as the money of the Constitution; open the mint to its free coinage; make an unlimited demand for it at a fixed price, and the price so fixed at the mint will be the market price of the bullion; for no one else will sell 412½ grains of silver for less than a dollar if he can have it exchanged at the mint for a dollar. This method has been tried and never failed. It is the mode prescribed by the Constitution, endorsed by the Democratic party in 1880 and 1884, and by the Republican party in 1883, but now repudiated by a Republican administration."

"The fact that the Executive Department has prevented the use of silver as money for eighteen years, by obstructing the passage of a free coinage law and by refusing to recognize silver coin as money for the purpose of paying national obligations, is a warning which the people cannot afford to disregard. It is probable that the gold trust will select different candidates in the future from those whom it has selected in the past? It is probable, so long as the gold trust is allowed to designate candidates for the Presidency, that the people will obtain relief from the calamity of contraction, falling prices, stagnation in business and hard times?"

"Free coinage of silver is no experiment. It was practiced from the foundation of the Government until 1873. At that time there was not too much coin of gold and silver for use as money. There has not been too much of both gold and silver produced since that time to supply the growing demands of business. The entire production of both metals has not been enough to keep pace with the growth of population. There has not been half enough gold produced for that purpose. There is no probability of an increased supply of gold. On the contrary, the demand for gold for ornaments and use in the arts is increasing. The amount of gold coin must decrease rather than increase. All the gold in the world is either owned or controlled by a very few men. The question for the people to decide is, shall the rule of the gold kings be perpetual?"

Cloud Burst in Kansas.

TOPEKA, May 5.—A terrific rain storm last night, amounting to a cloud burst, caused a flood which has submerged a large number of streets in this city. Many lower stories are under water, and in some districts the people are moving around in boats. The tracks of the Burlington road are washed out for some distance near Atchison. The Missouri Pacific is obliged to abandon its Lincoln branch on account of land slides and washouts in Nebraska. All the streams in southeastern Nebraska and northern Kansas are out of their banks, and are doing much damage to crops.

The Chinese Exclusion Act Signed.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The President today had a conference with the Attorney General concerning the Chinese Exclusion Act. As the Attorney General said it was a grave question whether all existing restrictive legislation did not expire to-morrow, the President signed the bill to avoid any possible legal complications.

SENATOR STEWART'S POSITION.

What he Did Say in the Senate April 12th UNITED STATES SENATE, WASHINGTON, D. C. April 26, 1892. To the Editor of the Nevada State Journal, Reno Nevada.—Mr. DEAR SIR:—The JOURNAL of the 21st instant contains a letter from General R. M. Clarke to which I wish to call attention. The quotation from the Territorial Enterprise is not quite accurate, and being separated from the context appears to have misled the General. In my speech in the Senate on the 12th instant, which appears in the Congressional Record of the 13th, I was showing the necessity of maintaining silver at a parity with gold, which is the established policy of the Government as declared in the act of July 14, 1890. In the course of that argument I said:

WHAT LEGISLATION CAN DO.

The bullion in the silver dollar as compared with gold is worth only about 67 or 68 cents; but it is the established policy of the United States, as declared in the act of 1890, to maintain the two metals (gold and silver) on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio. If this policy were established or maintained it would make no difference to the holder of a United States note, or a Treasury note, or any other obligation against the Government whether he received gold or silver. The question is, how can the established policy of the United States be maintained.

It was maintained from the foundation of the Government until 1873 by allowing the owner of bullion, whether it was silver bullion or gold bullion, to have it coined at the mint into dollars for his benefit at the ratio established by law. By the Act of 1873 the owner of silver bullion was denied the privilege of taking his bullion to the mint for coinage. His situation was very similar in that respect, as my colleague (Senator Jones) suggested the other day, to a farmer who should be denied under any circumstances the right to grind or have ground his wheat into flour while his neighbors enjoyed that privilege. The price of the wheat which was denied access to the mill to be ground would necessarily be greatly depreciated in the market. The same thing happened to silver when it was denied the right of coinage in 1873.

Legislation which would restore the money function to silver, give it unlimited coinage at the mint upon the same terms and conditions which apply to the coinage of gold, would establish and maintain the parity of the two metals. In that case it would make no difference to the owner of bullion whether it was gold or silver, because he could have either exchanged at the mint for coin on a parity with each other according to the legal ratio. The free coinage of silver would relieve the Treasury Department of the necessity of violating the law to maintain the gold standard. No one who has any knowledge of the subject contends that there is more than from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 of silver bullion in the world. All other silver has already been used in the arts or coined for circulation. But it is absolutely necessary to have that surplus bullion out of the market to rescue the white metal from the bulls and bears, and make it a standard measure of value equally with gold.

THERE IS NO HALF-WAY STATION.

The gold standard is to be maintained and the rule of the gold kings perpetuated, the Act of 1890 must be repealed, and the Secretary of the Treasury must be authorized to sell bonds and accumulate gold enough to redeem the paper money and the silver money now outstanding. But no public man dare make so monstrous a proposition. If silver is to be used as money, the silver in the silver dollar must be made equal in value to the gold in the gold dollar, which can only be done by the coinage of silver upon the same conditions which apply to the coinage of gold. If the Government will coin 412½ grains of standard silver into a dollar for the benefit of the depositor upon the same terms and conditions which apply to the coinage of 25 8 grains of standard gold, gold and silver coin will be equal in value, and the market value of the silver bullion required to make a silver dollar will be the same as the amount of gold required to make a gold dollar."

RESTORE SILVER BY ITS FREE COINAGE.

I cannot comprehend how this language can be misunderstood or interpreted as General Clarke appears to understand it. I understand him correctly he construes my language to mean that I would put more silver in the silver dollar in order to make the bullion in the silver dollar equal in value to the bullion in the gold dollar. I did not so state. I stated that I would restore the money function to silver by free and unlimited coinage, and in that way restore the parity between the two metals. And I remarked that that was the only possible way in which it could be done. If we should put more silver in the silver dollar to-day so as to make the value of the bullion in the gold dollar and the silver dollar equal, such equality would not exist on the following day, because as long as silver remains a commodity, its market value will fluctuate as compared with gold from day to day. The only way to maintain the parity between the two metals at the present legal ratio is to endow each metal with the same money function which pertains to the other, which can only be done by free coinage.

The position of President Harrison, as I understand it, is that he will maintain the parity between the two coins by redeeming silver coin in gold coin. He has no intention of maintaining the parity of the two metals, which is the established policy of the United States as declared in the Act of 1890. That is where we differ. I would maintain the parity of the two coins and the two metals by the free coinage of both. The President would maintain the parity of the two coins by treating silver as credit money and making its value to depend upon redemption in gold and leave the metal silver to fluctuate in the market without enjoying the money function at all. Yours, very truly,

WM. M. STEWART.

Floods in Illinois.

OTTAWA, Ill., May 5.—The most disastrous and alarming flood in the history of the city, visited this locality last night in the town of Marseilles. A small bridge across Gum creek lodged at the mouth of a culvert and blocking the stream, backed the water up and flooded the entire district. Many narrow escapes are reported in flights for safety, but no loss of life was entailed.

The low land in the residence and manufacturing districts of Ottawa, one and one-half miles long and from one-quarter to one mile wide, is a continuous lake. Small bridges are carried away, culverts washed out and railroad tracks washed away, until connection with the outer world is cut off.

Between Twin Bluffs and La Salle and La Salle and Geneseo all communication is cut off by the washouts of tracks, culverts and small bridges. It is estimated that it will take twenty-four hours to re-establish communication, it being a very serious washout. Near Tonia the main business streets are inundated.

An Escaped Murderer Captured.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., May 5.—George W. Bruggy, the condemned murderer, who escaped from jail Sunday night with a man named Frenchy, was captured this afternoon in a canyon on Keys' ranch, near Windsor, by County Auditor Hall and ex-Deputy Sheriff Groshony. The whereabouts of the escapes was just discovered by a man named Leslie while driving to town this morning. He saw a thin column of smoke rising out of the canyon and approached near enough to recognize Bruggy's voice. He then drove immediately to town and told his friend, Mr. Pool, who is Hall's Deputy. When Hall learned of the near presence of Bruggy he determined to capture the latter. Accordingly he and Groshony started out at noon, when they came upon the escapes in the canyon. Hall and Groshony got the drop on them and Bruggy and Frenchy gave up peacefully. Bruggy laughed about his capture, and said the reason he did not go farther was because his feet were tender and became sore. He had made no attempt at disguise.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The House considered the River and Harbor bill in Committee of the Whole to-day. Holman attacked the bill as being extravagant. It not only appropriated more than $21,000,000, but authorized contracts which would make the Government liable for $26,000,000 more.

Whiting of Michigan thought the proposition to secure a twenty-one-foot channel from Duluth to Buffalo premature and ill-advised.

Breakenridge of Kentucky attacked the bill.

Lookwood favored the deep water way channel, as did Cateneing.

The general debate being concluded the bill was considered under the five-minute rule. Without disposing of it the Committee arose and the House adjourned.

Alleged Land Frauds.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Before the Committee on Private Land Claims to-day Representative O. I. of Kansas produced a preamble and resolutions reciting that certain alleged wrongful acts on the part of Secretary Noble and Commissioner of the General Land Office Carter, which acts, it is alleged, were in the interest of the conspiracy in 1877, of S. B. McKim, then delegate to Congress from New Mexico; U. S. Attorney Catron, of New Mexico, and ex-Commissioner of the General Land Office Williamson, which resulted in depriving homestead and pre-emption settlers in Colorado and New Mexico of their vested rights. The resolution calls for an investigation.

President Harrison Endorsed.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 5.—The Republican State Convention which met at Martinsburg to-day is one of the largest ever held in the State. The resolutions reaffirm the principles of the platform of 1888, and endorse the McKinley law and reciprocity. On coinage it says: "We regard as of highest importance that every dollar issued by the United States shall have a probabing power of one hundred cents, that our gold, silver and paper may be kept on an equal footing." President Harrison is endorsed and his triumphant re-election predicted.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—After routine business the Senate took up the calendar and the following bill was passed among others: House bill appropriating $150,000 to defray the expenses of holding an arbitration at Paris. The Senate then went into executive session, after which it adjourned.

Census Examiner Reported.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Henry Huston, 60 years old, Census Examiner under Special Agent Thompson, who was some time ago removed from the control of the industrial census in this city, was arrested at the instance of Frank R. Williams, Chief Agent of the industrial census, on charges of fraud against the United States; forgery and perjury, growing out of the fraudulent performance of his duties as Census Examiner. In substance the accused Examiner's returns were the product of his own imagination, with the city directory as the basis of operations. He prepared a sworn list of returns but made no examination to base them on.

Ex-Senator Spooner on Silver.

MILWAUKEE, May 5.—The Republican Convention nominated Henry C. Payne, ex-United States Senator Spooner, General Lucius Fairchild and Congressman Stephenson delegates-at-large to the National Convention.

Ex-Senator Spooner made a speech in which he denounced free coinage as simply an expedient to furnish a market for the mineral product of a Nevada county and a part of the State of Colorado, and a device to scale the debts of the South.

Want Uncle Sam's Assistance.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—General Obeirne and Thomas St. John Gaffney, setting in compliance with a request of the Political Prisoners Amnesties Association of Ireland, called on Secretary Blaine this morning to ask the friendly interposition of this Government in the matter of obtaining a release of the Irish-American citizens now held as prisoners in Great Britain. In advance of a legal presentation of the case the Secretary was not willing to indicate what action he would take.

A Brave Pilot.

Captain John Stout, a Mississippi pilot, died recently in New Orleans. His life was distinguished by several acts of bravery. He was at the wheel of the steamer Robert E. Lee when she was burned at Yucatan plantation, in 1882. On that occasion he saved a score of lives by remaining at the wheel and holding his boat to the bank. He remained on the blazing vessel until the very last moment, and only escaped by diving down the log chain. Captain Stout was on board the steamboat J. N. White when she was burned above Lyon River in 1886, and jumped overboard to escape the flames. He was picked up almost lifeless.—Philadelphia

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies for the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said: "One Dollar's worth requires larger doses, and Hood's produces as good results as Hood's." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is now more sold in the United States than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar.

The People's party in far distant Maine demand free coinage as emphatically as the Nevada Silver League.

The April payrolls on the Comstock amounted to $167,263 50, or $568 03 less than the payrolls for March.

The Truckee Republican says about three miles of new snowsheds will be constructed in the mountains this season.

The Virginia Chronicle says it is the two-tail comet and the big spot on the sun that are playing school with the weather.

George Lovelocks, Sr., a pioneer of Humboldt county and founder of Lovelocks, Humboldt county, has been visiting Reno.

In Winnemucca there is a Free Coinage brewery, a Free Coinage carriage, a Free Coinage livery stable and a very bright Free Coinage newspaper.

Armor plates for the bath ship Monterey, now being built at San Francisco, are being taken west. The plates are 30 feet long, 4 feet wide and about 1 foot thick.

Professor Orvis Ring, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has returned from an extended official visit to the schools in Eastern Nevada.

Four inches of snow fell on the Comstock Wednesday. Winnemucca was visited by a snow storm last Tuesday, during which several inches of "the beautiful" fell.

Postmaster Kraus says post office inspectors have been rather numerous of late. The trial of one erring mail clerk in the U. S. Court at Carson was the cause of their increased numbers in this section.

The Virginia people have a treat in store for next Monday evening, when the Reno Elite Minstrels perform there. The boys give a first-class refined entertainment, and all who saw it here speak in the highest terms of the performance.

The Silver State says the people of Nevada have ceased to fight each other at the command of Republican or Democratic emissaries from Wall Street, and have turned a united front against their common enemy—the enemy of silver mining.

The Baptist Church was well filled to listen to America's great poet, Will Carleton. His readings prove himself to be as great a reader as writer, and his audience last night agree that the full merit of his poems cannot be appreciated until heard read by himself.

The cold, cloudy weather seems to last longer this Spring than usual, and is causing considerable complaint. This cold spell is very apt to come to an end before many weeks, and then the complainers will be wishing they had a little of it back again to cool off with.

Nowhere in Nevada can a finer assortment of clothing and furnished goods be found than at the White House, and especially so in children's line of clothing. Mothers would do well to give the White House a call when they desire clothing for their boys, as money can be saved by so doing.

Colonel Frank Proctor, well known in Nevada in early days, and if the JOURNAL's memory is not at fault, at one time the only Democrat in the Nevada Legislature, died at Buckley, Washington, on the 24th ultimo. He was a volunteer in the Mexican war, and the Carson Tribune says he owned the land on which the State Capitol now stands.

At the Cattlemen's Congress, at Ogden, Utah, a permanent organization, with the title of Inter-Mountain Stock Growers' Association, was effected, of which O. North, of the Clover Valley Cattle Company, Humboldt county, was elected President. The Silver State says the Congress passed a resolution asking for the repeal of the Inter-State Commerce Act.

Under the new time card of the Southern Pacific railroad, Reno derives a little more benefit than under the old card, as it is made the eating station for No. 2, the west-bound train, which stops here 20 minutes for breakfast. While this benefit is small, it helps, as from 20 to 40 passengers are fed each morning by Jack Godfrey at the Palace Restaurant, which the company has designated as their eating house. The passengers are also benefited by this change for no where on the road could they get a better meal than Jack sets out for them, and their satisfied look after breakfast at the Palace proves this assertion.

SILVER CONTROLS PRICES.

The JOURNAL has received a copy of Jones' chart, showing how the price of silver has controlled prices for wheat and cotton between 1871 and 1892. It gives more valuable and reliable information in less space and in a more convenient form than was ever before published on the silver question. It shows at a glance the influence that laws, and proposed laws, relating to silver have had over prices for some of the principal farm products of this country since silver was demonetized. The dates and figures printed on the chart were all taken from official or other absolutely reliable authorities, and show that the price of wheat has generally advanced or declined from 25 to 35 cents per bushel and cotton from 20 to 40 percent, on an average rise or fall of 20 cents per ounce on silver.

Other reliable authorities show that the prices for corn, dairy products, etc., have been influenced to the same extent by prices of silver since it was demonetized in 1873.

The effect of these changes is shown by a statement of the estimated quantity and value of these crops raised in the United States in 1891. The wheat product of that year was about 600,000,000 bushels; cotton, 4,500,000,000 pounds; corn, 2,000,000,000 bushels; oats, 650,000,000 bushels, and dairy products estimated at $700,000,000; altogether representing an aggregate value officially estimated at about $2,400,000,000 to their producers, to whom a loss or gain caused by a rise or fall of 20 cents per ounce on silver, according to past experience would amount to fully $450,000,000, a sum about equal to the tariff duties, internal revenue, postal service and all other taxes collected by the Government in 1891.

The entire silver product of this country for 1890 was 54,500,000 ounces, on which a loss or gain of 20 cents an ounce would have affected its producers $10,900,000, or less than one-fourth of its effect on prices for the farm products raised in 1891, figures which tend to prove that all legislation intended to advance the price of silver is for the benefit of farmers, dairymen and producers generally, as well as silver miners.

The chart, which should be in the hands of every intelligent person, is an object lesson. The price is two copies for twenty-five cents, ten for a dollar. Address the publisher, Geo. O. Jones, Washington, D. C.

Wreck on the C. & O.

The regular south-bound train on the C. & O. R. R. was ditched between Kiehead and Luning and about 13 1/4 miles south of Hawthorne Wednesday night at about 5:30 o'clock by the rear axle on the tender of the engine breaking in two. The train was only moving at the rate of six miles per hour, which fact, together with the quick action of the engineer in bringing it to a stop, prevented what might have been a very serious wreck. As it was, the broken axle and detached wheels tore off the under gear of two or three of the head cars, rendering them unfit for further use. The train was delayed about eleven hours, not reaching Candelaria until 3:45 o'clock yesterday morning. No one was hurt, but an Indian who was riding on the fore part of the train received a good ducking by being thrown into the water, through which the track runs at this particular point.

To Whom It May Concern.

Action has been taken on the part of many, and particularly on the part of Mrs. W. D. Hardin of Steamboat, who have friends laid away in the cemetery at Washoe City to place the grounds in a better condition than they are now in. Many graves are in such form that it is impossible to properly locate them. Those having relatives or friends buried in the grounds are requested to meet at the cemetery on May 10th next at 10 o'clock in the forenoon for the purpose of giving such aid and information as they can give in the matter of properly locating the graves of departed friends. By request,

VERDI, Nev., May 3, 1892.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Dr. Hogan has repeatedly challenged any man in the State to take up his pen and answer his questions. I fear the papers would not give me space to answer him, as it would take columns upon columns to do so and throw any light on the subject. If, however, Dr. Hogan will come to Verdi a week from Friday night, I will answer any or all the questions he has asked in his last letter to the Gazette, and assure him that no man will be allowed to carry eggs into the hall.

ESMERALDA DEMOCRATS.

Their Delegates Instructed Against Cleveland.

The Democratic County Central Committee of Esmeralda decided to dispense with a primary election and appointed the following named persons to the Democratic State Convention to be held at Winnemucca on the 26th instant: Ben Cottrell, Robert Stewart, James Daugherty, J. A. Jackson, Daniel Holland, W. A. Ingalls, and H. H. Robinson. It was resolved that the delegates under no circumstances transfer their proxies or cast their votes in the State Convention for any delegate to the National Convention who will not pledge himself to vote against any candidate who is not in favor of free coinage. It was further resolved that the delegates from Esmeralda be instructed to use all honorable means to have the State Convention instruct delegates to the National Convention to vote first, last and all the time for Hon. Richard P. Bland of Missouri as the standard bearer of the Democracy and the representative of the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Science Day at the High School.

There will be interesting exercises of a very practical nature at the High School to-day (Friday) beginning at 1 o'clock. The exercises will consist of experiments in science, showing the composition of bodies, the property and uses of gases and elements, and illustration and application of physical and chemical laws. The experiments will be conducted entirely by members of the senior and middle classes, and will be interspersed with music. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Live Leisurely

Is good advice, but live carefully is better. In both cases Simmons Liver Regulator will help you live best. It keeps the liver active, the bowels regular, and helps throw off the poison in the system which causes Malaria and Rheumatism. The Regulator also promotes digestion, and never fails to relieve the most severe cases of Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness.

Washington's First Love Affair.

George Fairfax was the companion of Washington on his surveying tour for Lord Fairfax. Washington first met Mrs. Fairfax at Belvoir, near Mount Vernon, when she was brought home as the bride of George William Fairfax. Miss Mary Cary accompanied her sister Sarah to Belvoir, and there met George Washington. She was then but fourteen years of age. Washington was only sixteen. He had never visited the low country near Williamsburg prior to this, and therefore could not have met Sarah Cary until her marriage. It is said that he fell in love at sight with Mary Cary, and went so far on his first visit to Williamsburg as to ask Colonel Cary for the hand of his daughter.

The big raven-haired lad found scant favor in the eyes of the patrician planter. He was dismissed in terms so curt that we must bear in mind paternal pride and other extenuating circumstances if we would keep intact our idea of a fine old Virginia gentleman.

"If that is your business here, sir, I wish you to leave the house! My daughter—the swelling emphasis rumbles down the corridor of years—"thus been accustomed to ride in her own coach."

Tradition asserts that the chagrined suitor took the choleric parent at his word, and that the next time he looked upon the face of his early love was when he passed through Williamsburg on his return from Yorktown after the surrender of Cornwallis.—Marion Harland in Harper's Weekly.

Wash Fruit Before Eating It.

The following curious instance is reported by M. Schmirer of the case with which consumption germs may be disseminated. While at work one day in the laboratory of Weichselbaum, he sent for some grapes to eat. The fruit had been kept for some time in a basket outside the lavatory and was covered with dust, so that the water in which it was washed was black. On examining it he reflected that, inasmuch as the neighboring street was traversed by consumptive patients going to the clinic, the dust probably was charged with tubercle bacilli. To settle this, M. Schmirer injected into three guinea pigs cubic centimeters of water in which the grapes had been washed. One animal died in two days from peritonitis, the two others died on the forty-eighth and fifty-eighth days, respectively, presenting marked tuberculous lesions, especially at the place of injection.

The water in which the grapes had been washed was taken from the faucet, and the glass containing it had been sterilized; neither the boy who had bought the grapes, nor the merchant who had sold them, was consumptive. The cause of the infection was, beyond doubt, the dust on the grapes. This experiment illustrates the danger arising from the dissemination of desiccated tuberculous spores in the air.—Hall's Journal of Health.

The Electric Road.

A GREAT CLIMATE.

AN ENGLISHMAN GIVES HIS OPINION OF CALIFORNIA.

Some Features of a Western State Compared to England—Good Advice for Those Who Think of Making Their Home in That Marvelous Country.

I am writing on Jan. 14. Over in the mild climate of England my fellow gardeners are protecting their plants from frost and sheltering carefully all those potted plants which they are going to force for the market. California is large—twice the size of England, I should say. But if you want to find a place here where you would have to do the like in your profession you would have to hunt the cool and somewhat treacherous air surroundings of our metropolis, or you would have to climb the peaks of our Sierras, and then you would have to reach an elevation of 3,000 feet before finding places with a real winter. We have no winter here, and what is generally called winter is understood to be the rainy season. This season is very mild, and we work at our places here in the foothills of the Sierras in shirt sleeves today and call it a most beautiful day.

Our foothills rival the valley; we have the high mountains at the back of us protecting us from the dry winds of the plains east of them and giving us the benefit of the warm reflection of the sun, which shines here almost every day. Our grapes ripen at 2,000 feet elevation, but seven days later than those from the Fresno region; while our climate is not so hot, being easily reached by the winds which blow every day from the ocean. We can dry raisins in the sun in spite of the occasional early rains which set in once in a while in the haying season, at the end of July.

The highest temperature I have recorded for four years was 112 degrees. Fahr. in the shade. I must say for a person coming from a cool climate, like that of England, this is anything but agreeable. But then 112 degrees, up in the mountains feels nothing like that heat in the valley, where no air may blow at the time. Hot spells last usually from three to five days, and then again we record 90 degrees to 95 degrees, or even 85 degrees, Fahr., for weeks at a time. By the time a person has been living here for say five years he gets pretty well used to it and lives through it just like everybody else.

A HEALTHY CLIMATE.

It is healthy here. The air is wonderfully pure, and the fogs which visit us from the ocean are quite pleasant, pure and refreshing. The Coast range is different altogether. It is affected by the evaporation of the ocean, and consequently cooler and temperate. The Coast range cuts the valley sharply from the ocean border, and its peculiarity is best demonstrated by alluding to the fact that, while the grape never ripens at San Francisco, ten miles from it, just behind the Coast range, there lies the land which supplies the city nearly all the year round with the most delicious strawberries.

Most people who come to California usually stop and stay at San Francisco. The climate is more agreeable, and there are more fellow countrymen, and all the advantages which city life offers. But the most acceptable openings are in the interior. Gardeners, as a rule, are people who are least afraid of anything, and if they cannot get a job at their own trade, very well, they try another.

Fruit growing is at its very best in California, and its climate is adapted to every kind in every part. The grape will grow and ripen, rich in alcohol or sour like a Riesling, just as you choose to pick your location. The orange is at some south and north up to 1,500 feet and, wonderful to note, the apple will ripen side by side with this subtropical fruit. Olives seem destined to shade every hillside which now gives ground to pines and underbrush, and peaches and apricots bring such wonderful returns that it is not surprising that English capital seeks investment by the million.

GOOD ADVICE.

If only the ground is kept cultivated it needs no irrigation, and shoots of ten, twelve or even fifteen feet in length on two-year-old trees are something a person may see from the railroad car while traveling through our glorious state.

The population of California is still small. One million and a quarter is all this state's census gave as the number of inhabitants. There will be homes for just as many as may choose to come and work their way. The great danger is that the warm climate and the ease with which the soil gives a return will make the people too lazy. The young generation springing up at the present is not as energetic as their forefathers, from whatever country they came. Times have been too easy for the old folks—if they did not make any money through labor they did so in trading, and as a last and most important resource they can fall back upon their real estate and turn into money what the emigrants are willing to buy. The estates are too large altogether at present, and the more they are cut up the better it will be.

The man who comes here ought to know a trade, and be a handy man all around. He should be content to work for other people for a time until he gets accustomed to the ways of this climate. And he should work at the wages which the trade unions have established. As he works for other people he has the best opportunity to watch his chance without running any risk.—Jackson (Cal.) Cor. Gardner's Chronicle.

The Size of Solomon's Temple.

Solomon's Temple, as described in the Scriptures, would not be regarded as a very imposing structure in this day and age of the world. Its length was 107 feet, breadth 36 feet, and it was 54 feet in height, with a portico or veranda 28 feet long and 18 feet wide. We have private houses that overshadow such an unpretending structure.—St. Louis Republic.

Washing Little Indians.

We were camped at the Hot Springs on the Lo Lo trail, made famous in Indian annals by the escape of Chief Joseph and his band of Nez Perces. Just above us was a large camp of Flatheads who were making their fall hunt. One morning we were awakened by shouts and cries. Evidently there was great excitement somewhere, and we promptly jumped up. It was just after daylight and cold clouds of steam were rising from the big basin shaped pool at the foot of the granite wall, from which poured a thick stream of boiling water. The pool was so large that at the lower edge the water was almost cold. The nearer you approached to the place where the water burst from the rock the better chance you stood of getting boiled.

At the edge, at a point where the water was of a comfortable temperature, stood two Indians, one on the bank and the other on a stone in the water. Near by were a dozen other Indians guarding a number of little Indian boys and girls who had nothing on and were howling and crying.

When we looked out of the tent the two Indians at the pool had an Indian boy, one holding him by the feet the other by the hands, and were gravely swinging him backward and forward through the warm water, while he yelled at every dip. As soon as we had finished with him he was set upon the bank, and ran to the willow brush near by.

The noise redoubled, for each child in the crowd guarded by the Indians feared that it was his turn. They all tried to escape to the brush, but their elders pursued and caught them, until the very last one had been put through the cleansing process.—New York Sun.

Big Field Guns and Their Effect.

If you insist on high velocity you have to add so much additional machinery to your gun carriage and have to so greatly strengthen its construction that you destroy its mobility, while even if you gain a long range you are still unable to make use of your most efficient projectile at it. Moreover, since the remaining velocity of its shrapnel is a truer measure of the value of a gun than its initial velocity, and the two are by no means directly proportional, it does not follow that we benefit as much as we might expect by submitting to these disadvantages. Thus, the 12-pounder has an initial velocity of over 1,700 feet per second and a remaining velocity at 3,000 yards of 892 feet; while the 13-pounder, with an initial velocity of only 1,500 feet, has at the same range a remaining velocity greater by six feet per second than that of its rival.

One of our highest authorities on field artillery has, indeed, recorded his opinion, that, as regards the efficiency of shrapnel, we gain nothing by the increased muzzle velocity of "the best field gun in Europe" at all practical ranges. Moreover, it is the attempt to squeeze out the last few extra feet that does all the harm.—London Saturday Review.

A Elephant's Toothache.

The elephant in the Zoological gardens in Paris must be a very reasonable creature. He suffers from toothache, and if in proportion to his size, he must suffer a good deal; yet, while it is being stopped and filled, we are told, he is exceedingly patient, only "gently moving his trunk" when the operation is particularly painful. A word of praise is also surely due to the dentist. A man might have earned the Victoria Cross and yet have some misgivings when that trunk began to wave. In the case in question it was only employed "to caress the operator," by way of fee, when the proceedings were concluded; but it might have been put to a different use.

The report does not inform us whether the elephant is placed in a chair with his head well back, a position with which most of us are only too well acquainted. There is a little difficulty, it seems, in inducing him to take laughing gas, which he may think beneath his dignity.—James Payn in Illustrated London News.

Travelers on the Move.

The tide of the genus tramp has already begun its flow northward. For the past week the applications for aid at the central office of the Associated charities have been made up chiefly of persons who have been in the city but a day or so, and they generally apply for shoes and clothing. These applicants are composed of that class that annually migrate to the south at the commencement of winter, where they stay until the opening of spring, when they turn their nomadic faces northward.—Washington Post.

Coal in the Argentine Republic.

The outlook for the recently discovered coal mines in the Argentine Republic is so favorable that the railway companies of that country have declined to renew their contracts with the British mines for fuel. Hitherto all the coal burned on the Argentine railroads has been imported, but it is believed that the newly discovered mines will furnish a supply entirely sufficient for domestic consumption.—Engineering.

When to Buy Shoes.

A customer with tender feet should be fitted with shoes late in the afternoon. The feet are then at their utmost size, for activity enlarges them.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Don't read! Don't think! Don't believe! Now, are you better? You women who think that patent medicines are a humbug, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the biggest humbug of the whole (because it's best known of all)—does your lack-of-faith come from?

It is very easy to "don't" in this world. Suspicion always comes more easily than confidence. But doubt—little faith—never made a sick woman well—and the "Favorite Prescription" has cured thousands of delicate, weak women, which makes us think that our "Prescription" is better than your "don't believe." We're both honest. Let us come together. You try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If it doesn't do as represented, you get your money again.

Where proof's so easy can you afford to doubt.

Electricity from Wind.

Owing to the comparative scarcity of water power in many parts of England for the generation of power for electrical purposes, attention has been given to wind power, of which the country is well supplied. A small experimental plant has been in operation at a flour mill near London, the windmill supplying sufficient power to run a small dynamo. The current is used to charge a storage battery, from which a number of arc and incandescent lamps were lighted nightly. Although the current obtained was small the experiment was successful in demonstrating the value of this form of power for generating electricity.—Electricity.

Making Jewelry in State Prison.

The authorities have decided to begin manufacturing pearl buttons and pearl jewelry in the southern Illinois penitentiary, which is located in Chester. Warden Murphy has returned from Auburn, N. Y., where he engaged three experts to superintend the work. Arrangements have been made for the sale of the entire product, and the manufacturing will be done on the state's account.

One hundred convicts will be employed in the industry, which, it is claimed, will not antagonize the free labor of the state.—Cor. Jewelers Weekly.

Two Singular Accidents.

Annie Delamater, the eleven-year-old girl who was choked to death Sunday afternoon by swallowing a small rubber toy balloon, was buried from the residence of Mrs. Kane, 70 Henry street.

The child's father, a widower, who boards in Williamsburg, while going up stairs in the house where the corpse lay at 8 a. m. on the day of the funeral, fell backward down a flight of stairs. An ambulance took him to Gouverneur hospital, where it was found that both legs were paralyzed, and he is now in a critical condition.—New York Sun.
